CEDARVILLE COLLEGE BULLETIN

April-May, 1970

STUDENT UNION PLANNED

Does your home have a dining room where your family can eat together, a living room where you can enjoy each other's fellowship, and possibly even a family room for recreation and relaxation? Many of these things we take for granted, but did you ever ponder the adjustment a college student makes when he leaves home to live with 928 other young people? Our campus presently has limited facilities for student relaxation and recreation.

This problem could be solved with a new student union that would provide our students with dining facilities, a lounge area, and recreational facilities. It may never replace home but it will go a long way to become a "home away from home."

The college architect, Mr. Russell W. Jenkins, Jr., has designed the new student union to meet many of the student's needs. The new building will be situated in a restful, attractive setting by our new six-acre lake. The structure appears to grow out of the landscape, complementing the lake front with the appearance of a lodge. Access to the building is provided by a foot bridge across the lake.

The new student union and two other buildings, the new science center and men's dormitory, are involved in our present campaign entitled "Three to Grow On." All three of these buildings will become a reality

TELEFUND CONCLUDES AAG IV

The Alumni Association elected to conclude this year's AAG IV (Annual Alumni Giving) program by using a personal greeting via the telephone. "Contact 70 Cedar's Telefund" was used to describe the special project. The Alumni Executive Committee comprised of President, Rev. Larry Czerniak, Vice-President, Ronald Grosh, Secretary, Mrs. Jody Grosh, and William Riter, Treasurer, decided to use this technique as a conclusion for the final weeks of the four-month emphasis of AAG IV.

A specially designed postcard was mailed three weeks ahead of the scheduled nights of calling. The card announced the Telefund and stated that Contact 70 Cedar's Telefund would go from coast to coast, from Cedarville to Anywhere, U.S.A. to reach every alumnus and encourage their participation in support of Christian higher education.

The Ohio Bell Telephone Company of Xenia, Ohio donated the time to record every telephone number of each alumnus for which we had an active address on file. The information was recorded on a special Telefund control card that each volunteer caller used on the six nights of calling.

The kick-off night was February 9, 1970, Monday evening, 7:00 p.m. Alumni President, Rev. Larry Czerniak, came from Brownsburg, Indiana to join four other volunteers to start the campaign using a special bank of ten telephones. Mr. Paul Pontis, of Pontis Associates, Springfield, Ohio provided an office floor of his building from which our staff operated. Before the end of the campaign, 24 volunteer alumni were sharing with their classmates the merits of our annual fund and the new Cedarville Associate program. Each caller dialed direct the number of a classmate and discussed Cedarville College and why we were calling.

To qualify as a Cedarville Associate each alumnus, or head of household where husband and wife were alumni, who contributes $25 or more to Cedarville College before the end of the fiscal year (June 30, 1970) would be entitled to membership. A personalized membership card would be mailed to each alumnus qualifying and would entitle the alumnus to several campus benefits for one year only (July 1, 1970-June 30, 1971) or for each year he or she qualified. This program would continue for each alumnus who supports regularly the annual fund.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S DESK

Dr. James T. Jeremiah, President

In 1969 Doubleday published a history of the State of Ohio, written by Dick Perry. When I saw this volume in a bookstore, I could not resist the temptation to see if Cedarville, Ohio, merited mention by the writer. It does! The author not only makes reference to our town, but gives a brief personal estimation of Cedarville College. He writes: "Cedarville College appears to be a trim collection of antique school houses."

Possibly the author did his research sometime ago, or if he visited the campus in recent years he did not take time to notice the improvements made in the "school houses." Regardless of the reason for such a statement, we are glad to be mentioned in this fine volume of Ohio history.

We share many things in common with other Ohio colleges, among which are old buildings. We have discovered, however, that some of these old buildings can be, and are, quite functional and attractive. Have you noticed the new appearance of Old Main? The exterior has not been changed, but it has been refurbished so that it looks somewhat as it appeared in the early days. The first floor administrative offices and the third floor faculty offices are no longer antique in appearance. The rest of the building will be transformed, too, as funds are available.

The immediate important program relates to our science facilities. By this time most of our readers have heard of "Three to Grow On," a plan to obtain three new buildings in three years by means of gifts totaling $800,000. To date the response has been excellent even though we are a long way from reaching our goal. Many churches and individuals have already promised to give $1,000 during the next three years. If you plan to do this, but have not informed us of your intentions, if you would do so, it will encourage everyone who is working long hours to make a new science building a reality.

In closing let me give this special word of invitation to every pastor who reads these lines. Our third annual Pastor's Conference will be held this year September 8 through 11. Dr. Warren Wiersbe, of Covington, Kentucky, will be speaking on "The Pastor and his Books." Four workshops of interest to Christian workers have been planned. Pastor, put these dates on your schedule, and remember that this invitation is to all pastors.

when $800,000 is received in gifts for the new science center. The other two buildings will be financed through borrowed funds and the sale of bonds.

The campaign was launched in Ohio during the months of November and December, 1969. A second regional campaign was held in Michigan during the months of February and March, 1970. During April and May, 1970, a regional campaign will be conducted in Indiana. Almost 200 volunteer committee members have been personally encouraging churches and individuals to give toward this project. The campaign total is, as of March 10, 1970, $132,520.

In addition to the regional two-month campaigns in these different states, every effort is being made to share this project with churches and individuals across the country. A brochure describing the buildings was mailed to all alumni and interested friends of the college. We also conducted a Telefund (see the report in this issue) to contact alumni of the college. Four-hundred filmstrips and records are being circulated outside the areas where regional campaigns are being held. Pastors are encouraged to show this presentation to their people so they can prayerfully consider what the Lord would have them to do toward this project.

We feel that it is the college's responsibility to inform churches and friends of this opportunity for an expanded ministry. Now would you pray that the Lord will move in the hearts of people to supply our needs? Have you considered what the Lord might have you to do?

The interior of the student union will have the relaxing atmosphere of a lounge with a fireplace and lounge. It will provide an ideal setting for students to find relief from the pressures of academic life. The interior features an enclosed mall surrounding the central lounge. Around the perimeter of the lounge will be the cafeteria, snack shop, bookstore, post office, and recreational facilities.

Alumni Association Secretary, Mrs. Jody Grosh, calling in Telefund.

A Cedarville Associate member would be entitled to: free admission to athletic events on campus; a Bookstore discount; free admittance to campus Artist Lecture Series; and reduced meal costs at special alumni events.

The Telefund was used to announce the Associate's benefits to several hundred alumni for the first time. Each person called was mailed a special explanatory letter, and those not reached by telephone were mailed a similar letter explaining the new program.

The Associates program has been received very well. As of March 18th, there have been 234 responses. Over 150 of these responses were new participators in annual giving. Many alumni have sent in checks for $25 to qualify for a Cedarville Associate.

CROSS COUNTRY

The 1969 edition of the Cedarville Cross-Country was deemed a success by rookie coach, Elvin King. This has been a rebuilding year due to a late start and inexperience. Junior, Ken Evans and sophomore, Dave Jewell were a great help to the team having had the only previous varsity experience. The other twelve members were freshmen.

The team compiled a 6-6 record and competed well in the NAIA District 22 Cross-Country meet at Findlay College, Findlay, Ohio. The best four-mile time recorded this year was by freshman, Bob Wood, covering the four miles in a Cedarville College record of 21 minutes and 47 seconds.

Coach King is bringing the team back two weeks early next fall to eliminate the late start, and since all fourteen harriers will be returning, there will be experience on the team.

The team is now looking forward to a schedule of church meetings in which the men will be giving testimonies and presenting special music.

Coach King would be glad to hear from or about any Christian athletes who have outstanding track or cross-country ability.

Forty teams from six states competed this year and several hundred spectators supported this exciting annual tourney.

COURTS AND CHAMPS READY

The Cedarville College tennis team looks forward to 1970 with anticipation. The team that has swept the conference championship by winning every bracket for two consecutive years will be initiating the new tennis complex, composed of six beautiful green and red all-weather courts.

For the first time, coach Murray Murdock's squad — twelfth in the N.A.I.A. last season — will have more than one court for practice.

Home matches no longer will have to be scheduled at Xenia High School. Consequently for the first time Cedarville will play half of its matches at home. Altogether nine home matches are scheduled. In addition on Cedar weekend (May 8-9) the first annual Cedarville Invitational Tournament will involve Cedarville, Central State, N.C.A.A. college division power Transylvania (a team that defeated the Yellowjackets 5-4 last season), and one team yet to be named. May 15 and 16 the Mid-Ohio Conference Tournament will be held in Cedarville.
